

Ivan Koloff is universally respected as one of the all-time great monster main eventers. For more than two decades, he terrorized opponents and fans alike. In the 70s, he scored the greatest upset in wrestling history when he ended the incredible eight-year reign of Bruno Sammartino as WWF World heavyweight champion. In the 80s, he remained a tremendous star in his own right while helping to build Nikita Koloff into a monster, both in the ring and at the box office. In the meantime, everywhere he appeared, success in the ring and the box office followed.
